Can everyone reach your information?

Introducing the new touchscreen accesskiosks

Accessible touchscreen kiosks.

Most touchscreen kiosks are not adjustable, making them difficult for many disabled people and children to use. Yet the Disability Equality Duty requires that everyone has equal access to the information and services provided by the public sector.

In consultation with a wide range of users and experts in inclusive design we have developed a new range of inclusive touchscreen products and services.

Our accesskiosks have a unique 'one-touch tilt and lift' feature so that the screen can be set in exactly the right position for whoever is using it. The added benefit is that this means that content can be communicated to children and adults on the same unit.

Plus the accesskiosk's bright LCD touchscreen, advanced processor and cheerful looks make it a fun, fast and friendly resource in any environment.
